SPRING BALLOONS at North Bay Elementary School in Bay St. Louis as students, faculty and other school personnel release 525 balloons Wednesday afternoon following a '3-2-1-Go' countdown. The balloon launch, followed by cheering and a chase across the school playground, was part of a national Writing Pals program sponsored by Weekly Reader.

Each balloon had attached to it a message explaining the project and asking the finder to return it to North Bay. The school that submits the message that has traveled farthest will receive $500 from Weekly Reader. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Highway Commission seeks junkyard law compliance

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Hayward Spiers has again violated the state's Junkyard Control Law, according to the Mississippi State Highway Commission.
A contempt complaint brought against him by the commission is scheduled for hearing April 10 in Hancock County Chancery Court.
According to the contempt complaint, Spiers, owner and operator of Hayward Spiers and Sons Auto Salvage and Body Shop on US-90, Bay St. Louis, has violated the terms of a decree dated August 22, 1980, ordering him to comply with the provisions of the Junkyard Control Law.

In addition, the complaint alleges, Spiers has 'accumulated a number of additional violations' of the decree.
According to the 1980 decree signed by Chancellor William L. Stewart, Spiers appeared before the court then, advised he desired to comply with the Junkyard Control Law and entered into a consent decree.
The decree stated that subsequent to June 16, 1986, Spiers established

'automobile graveyards' on both the north and south sides of US-90 in connection with his automobile repair business, with both graveyards located within 1,000 feet of the US-90 right-of-way.
The 1980 decree ordered Spiers within a specified time frame to remove junked vehicles from certain areas and to construct fences to screen the graveyard from US-90.
At the time the court specifically reserved and retained jurisdiction for

Enterprise-747 to fly over Hancock

Shuttle to 'buzz' NSTL enroute to World's Fair

By EDGAR H. PEREZ
America's first space shuttle, the orbiter Enterprise, atop NASA's 747 shuttle carrier, will embark today on a 15-day land, sea and air odyssey which will include a planned pass over Hancock County and a final destination in the U.S. Pavilion of the New Orleans World's Fair.
The final leg of the journey will be a unique barge trip for Enterprise from Mobile, Ala., via Intracoastal Waterway, Mississippi Sound, Chandeleur Sound and the Mississippi River to the World's Fair site in New Orleans.
The 150,000 orbiter will be displayed at the fair from May 12 through Nov. 11.
The barge trip from Mobile is the only viable method of transporting the DC-14 orbiter to the New Orleans waterfront.
The craft is too large to transport by rail or road and particularly through the streets of New Orleans, the fair location, according to NASA officials.
The shuttle carrier will leave the NASA Mobile facility at 10 a.m. today and fly over the Gulf of Mexico to the Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Center, Fla., Edward Air Force Base and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.
Permanent structures are normally used for mating and demating the orbiter from the shuttle carrier aircraft, a modified 747.
If an orbiter were to be required to land at a contingency landing site overseas, the methods of handling and movement perfected on this trip would be invaluable.
The Enterprise, atop the Shuttle Carrier Aircraft, is scheduled to fly from Edwards to Vandenberg today.
The 747/Enterprise combination will undergo fit-and-function checks at Vandenberg shuttle facilities for several days.
Space Shuttle launches from the Vandenberg site are scheduled to begin in 1985.
On Thursday the 747/Enterprise is scheduled to fly from Vandenberg to Little Rock Air Force Base, Ark., near Jacksonville, Fla., where it will be on display for two days.
The shuttle carrier will then fly to the NASA Mobile facility, where it will be mated to the orbiter and fly over the Gulf of Mexico to the Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

aircraft will then follow the Gulf Coast east to Mobile.
The city commission of Mobile has planned an arrival ceremony for 3 p.m. March 29 at Brookely Field.
General public viewing is scheduled for March 31-April 1.
At Brookely Field, two large transportable cranes and other special ground support equipment will detach the orbiter from the 747 and position it on a 50-wheel transport trailer.
From the airfield it will be moved to a nearby Mobile U.S. Coast Guard Station where it will be loaded aboard a large ocean barge for the water leg of the trip.
The barge will be towed from Mobile through the Mississippi Sound via the Intracoastal Waterway, then south through Chandeleur Sound. The barge will enter the Mississippi River near Venice, La., and proceed upriver to New Orleans.
The barge trip is expected to take three days.
Enterprise arrives at the Mobile facility at 10 a.m. today and will be mated to the orbiter and fly over the Gulf of Mexico to the Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Longo plans public hearing despite state cancellation

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
And EDGAR PEREZ
Waveland Mayor John Longo, chairman of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority, said Wednesday night a public hearing scheduled Tuesday will be conducted, whether or not State Bureau of Pollution Control officials attend.

Earlier Wednesday, the BPC's coordinator for Hancock County reported the Tuesday public hearing regarding wastewater district alternatives for long-range sewage treatment plans was to be postponed.

But BPC officials plan to meet 'informally' with the district board of directors sometime next week to determine what type of wastewater effluent disposal method the local governments prefer, John McCarty, the bureau coordinator said Wednesday.

"We (BMR) plan to meet sometime next week with the local board. We're going to approach this as an informal meeting rather than a regular meeting," he stated.

When asked if the public or press would be informed of or invited to the meeting, McCarty replied, "We're going to sit down with the board and BMR staff informally to discuss this and see how they want to proceed."

"I'm sure at the next meeting (of the wastewater board in April) they will discuss this," he stated.
But Longo said later he 'has no intention of breaking faith with the people' by cancelling the public meeting at the eleventh hour.

"And I have no intention of attending any closed meetings—there are just too many people vitally interested in this project for that," the authority chairman emphasized.

"It seems to me these state officials are trying to put the cart before the horse," Longo continued.

"It seems to me the right way to make a decision on the alternative we will support is after we receive the public input from the hearing Tuesday."

"I can't make a decision on this issue without the input we are expecting," the mayor added.

"And you can believe I'm not going to get involved in another sewerage project or make any binding decisions without a commitment in writing on funding from the responsible agencies, state and federal."

"I'm definitely opposed to cancelling the hearing," Longo stated.

McCarty explained that there are six effluent disposal alternatives now under consideration by the district board, but to meet federal and state guidelines the local entity must choose one of those methods.

Those effluent disposal methods, based on a legal notice announcing the hearing, include moving Watts Bayou and Edwards Bayou discharge sites to Jourdan River; moving only the Bay St. Louis sewage lagoon discharge point from Watts to Jourdan and upgrading Waveland sewage treatment; pumping Bay sewage to the Waveland lagoon for final treatment and discharge into Edwards; deep well injection; utilizing the Mississippi Sound; and upland spray irrigation.

"We (the BMR) have guidelines to meet water quality standards, but beyond that it's up to the district to propose what they want to do (for effluent disposal)," McCarty said.

"We'll judge if the district's proposed method is acceptable for the water quality standards," he added.

McCarty explained that the first public hearing, which drew numerous complaining Jourdan River residents objecting to the proposed effluent disposal in that waterway, was conducted by the BPC because its concern was primarily the 208 Plan which set out the district management scheme.

He noted the 201 Plan outlines long-range sewage treatment methods here and is the main topic of the second public hearing which is the responsibility of the wastewater district.

When asked why the upcoming public hearing was cancelled only six days before the scheduled date, McCarty replied, "We're close to the public hearing date and still there are public commitments the district has to make."

McCarty emphasized that the general public will be notified when the postponed hearing will be rescheduled.

Ethel Schott, wastewater district administrator, early Wednesday said that the BPC requested the hearing postponement because of 'further developments' in the matter.

She did not know when the hearing might be rescheduled.

Man climbs transformer, suffers critical burns

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A 29-year-old man was critically burned at an electric power transformer near Sycamore Street in Waveland Wednesday afternoon.

Police Chief Donald Dorn said his office received a call about 1:15 p.m. from an unidentified caller who reported that 'a transformer blew and started a fire' at the substation between Waveland Avenue and Sycamore Street.

Then someone else called, Dorn said, to say someone had been spotted about 30 feet up on the transformer.
Dorn said Mobile Medic Ambulance Service was dispatched to the scene and the power company was called to cut off electric power.

He said it was also necessary to borrow a lift truck from the power company to remove the man who was then taken to Hancock General Hospital.

HGH Public Relations Director Mary Perkins said the man has been identified as Owen J. McArdle Jr. of New Orleans.

Dorn also listed a Waveland address for McArdle at 1120 Spruce St.

According to Perkins, McArdle is in critical condition with electrical burns over 80 to 90 percent of his body, both front and back.

He was to be transferred Wednesday night to a burn center, she reported, as soon as arrangements could be made for helicopter transportation.

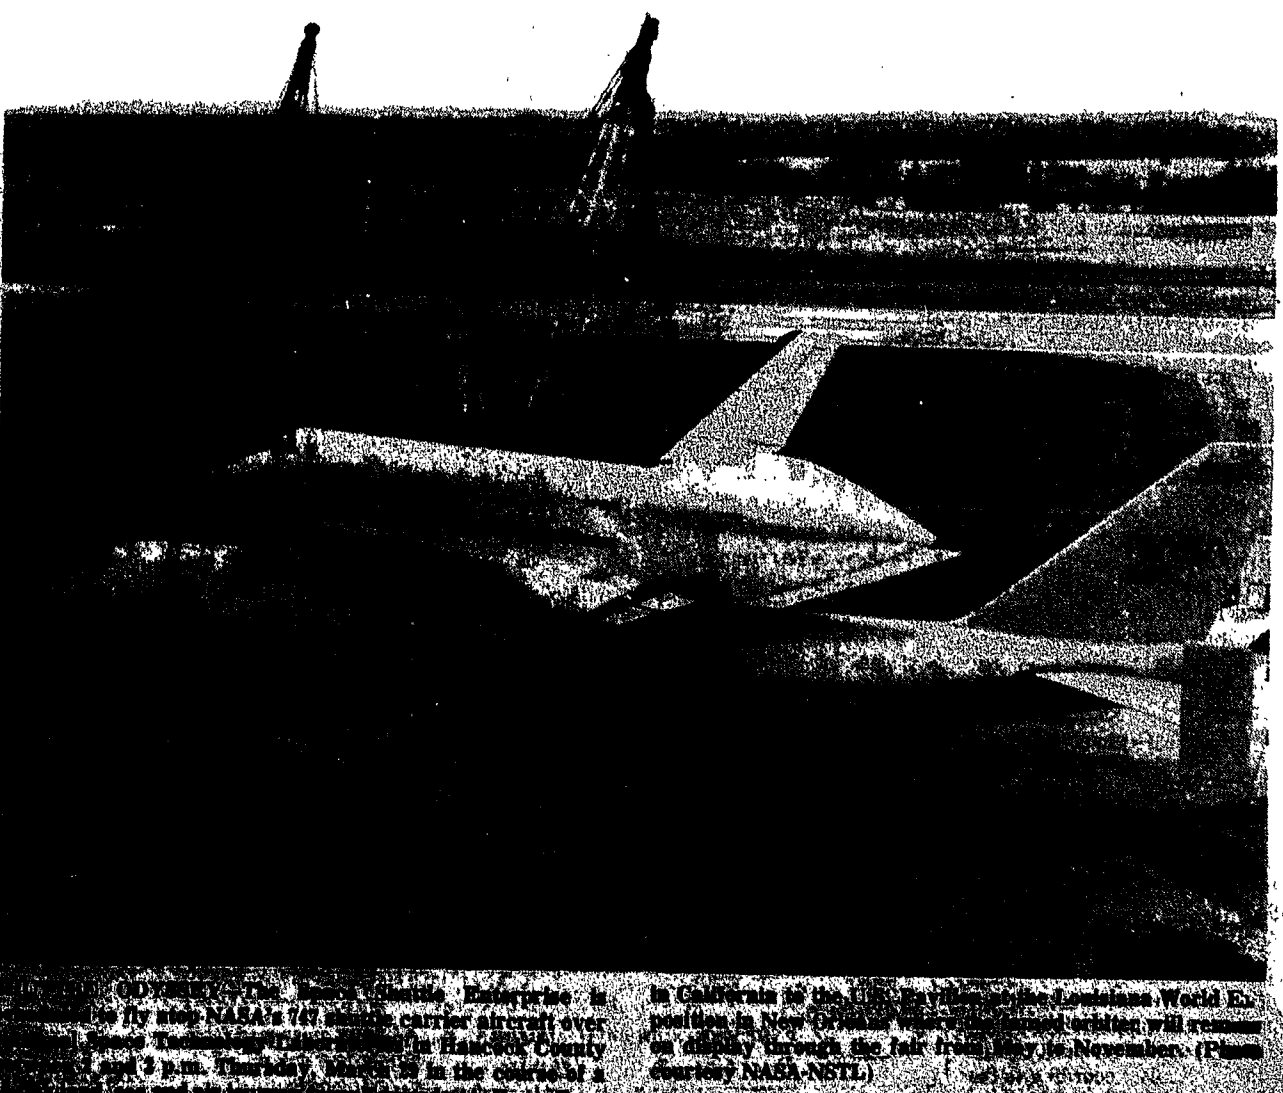

Dorn noted there was also a small fire at the bottom of the transformer pole where McArdle was burned.

"I'm sure there will be an investigation," he said.

News Brief

The White Cypress Gumbo Festival Organization will hold a 'get-together' Sunday from noon until 2 p.m. on the festival grounds at Necaise Crossing, according to L.J. Breaux III, president.

Members will discuss the past nine years and expectations for the future, Breaux stated. Entertainment selections will be announced for this year's festival. Any civic organization interested in participating with a booth is invited. Covered dish dinner will precede the meeting.

Frommeyer appointed to Bay school board

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Margo Frommeyer of Waveland has been appointed to the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees.

Frommeyer, of 426 Bradford Ln., was appointed Tuesday by the Bay St. Louis City Council to fill the vacancy created when Trustee Betty Diboll resigned from her elected post when she moved from Waveland to Bay St. Louis.

Diboll was later selected as one of Bay St. Louis' appointed representatives on the board.

Frommeyer will serve as one of two trustees from areas outside the Bay St. Louis municipality until the first Saturday in March, 1985, when an election will be held to fill the post.

The appointment was necessary because there was not sufficient time following Diboll's resignation for persons to qualify for an election this year.

The Bay Council voted unanimously for Frommeyer's appointment, with Councilman Harry Farve absent, after Mayor Larry Bennett recommended her.

Bennett said he had asked Waveland Mayor John Longo to recommend an appointee, and "this is the name he gave us," Bennett said.

Frommeyer, who has five children, moved to Waveland from New Orleans about 11 years ago, she said Wednesday.

Three of her children went through school in the Bay-Waveland school system, she said, and the youngest, Jan, is currently a freshman at Bay Junior High School.

Frommeyer said she was actively involved with the Parent/Teacher Organization while Jan was in elementary school, served as secretary for several years and was elected as Waveland's first female PTO president when Jan was in sixth grade.

That same year, she said, she also served on the school assessment board. Frommeyer said she felt she could get a grasp on school finance because of her background.

An employee of Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity at NSTL, she served as financial assistant there for three years.

About two months ago, she said, she was given an assignment as computer assistant and will be teaching computer work to various personnel.

Frommeyer currently serves as vice president in charge of programs for the Bayou Chapter of Federally Employed Women.

She is also a member of the NSTL choir.

"As a parent," she said, I feel I have insight from children's point of view."

"I also have great empathy for teachers," she said, noting that she worked as a substitute teacher in New Orleans for about two years and "really got a feel for what teachers go through."

"You can't pay teachers enough for the job they're doing. It's admirable that they're so dedicated."

"Teaching is more than just a five-day-a-week job," Frommeyer asserted.

"The more you can do to cooperate with them and help them, the better."

Frommeyer said she enjoyed all her affiliations with the Waveland Elementary School.

"We had a good rapport between teachers and parents," she said.

"I'd like to see that happen in all the schools."

Frommeyer said she realized that as children get older it's harder to get parents involved.

"But I'd like to think I could help make a difference," she said.

In another council matter, several Cedar Point residents asked assistance in solving flooding problems that have occurred since last summer, they said, when Glen Overton covered over a ditch on his property that drained into Engman pond.

Joseph G. Tranchina of 116 Dogwood Rd. said water at times "completely saturates" the street.

"I've been here seven years," he said, "and never saw this condition before."

Michael Gemelli of 105 Dogwood Rd., who lives across the street from the Overton property, said trees along the road are beginning to get root rot.

City Attorney Joseph Gex noted that the city is responsible only for natural drainage.

"The first thing you have to do is determine whether or not it was a natural drain," he said.

"If so, there's no question the city has a right to go in and reopen it. If not, property owners can bring suit or the city can go in and have the owner give us an easement to 'take a drain.'"

New Orleans Attorney Sandy Krasnoff, representing Overton, denied that the ditch was a natural drainage ditch and said it was dug in error by a person who thought the property was his.

"Mr. Overton would also like to see something done about drainage," Krasnoff said, "but he doesn't want a ditch dug through his property which he plans to make his home."

Council members agreed that Bennett, Gex, Councilman Gary Griffin and Engineer Donn Murray would look at the property later this week to determine how the problem can best be resolved.

Two Spanish Acres residents also attended Tuesday's meeting to complain about a broken lift station pump in their area.

Every time the pump is turned off, they said, their toilets overflow.

The pump, they said, which has been broken since the week before Christmas, is turned off every night between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Bennett explained that two pumps at the end of Spanish Acres Drive need repair.

"Probably," he said, "they are original pumps from when the subdivision was developed, and because of their age parts are not available and are having to be made."

Someone has to be sent out to manually turn the pumps on, Bennett explained, and agreed to ask the utilities department to investigate and make necessary changes in scheduling to alleviate the situation.

After Bennett advised the council that other pumps in the subdivision are getting ready to go out, too, the council authorized advertisement of bids for new sewer pumps for those that need replacing in Spanish Acres.

Tuesday the council took under advisement a request for a smoke ordinance from Mrs. Joe Pilet of 520 Highland Dr.

Pilet discussed potential hazards of smoke to both human and plant life, and questioned whether persons who obtain burning permits are complying with the provisions required by the permits.

Pilet noted that Class 1 permits require that trash be burned in a wire trash burner with broom, shovel and garden hose available.

Class 2 permits require that rubbish be burned in an area cleared 20 feet around a fire, with burnable material no more than three feet high, a tractor or dozer on continual standby on location, two buckets of water, brooms and a shovel available.

The council also took under advisement a request to convert Louisville Garden Apartments at 117 Demonthuzin Ave. into condominiums and asked that details of the conversion be provided prior to taking any action.

Florida trooper nabs Hancock robbery trio

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bond has been set at $10,000 each for three persons in connection with the armed robbery of the Seller's Grocery on Tuesday morning, according to Delbert Seay, Hancock County investigator.

The three were apprehended by a Florida State Trooper Tuesday as they entered the state, Seay said.

Seay stated, "Bert Lee Hall, 19, Rt. 3, Box 43, Lumberton, Miss., and two Bogalusa, La. juveniles, one 15 and the other 17, were arrested by Florida Trooper C.P. Brockman in connection with the robbery."

"Store owner-manager Jerry Shaw's wife Estelle saw three subjects parked when she arrived to open for the day's business at 7 a.m. Two of the subjects entered the store located on Highway 53 near the Harrison County line and allegedly pulled a handgun and robbed her of cash, groceries and gasoline and fled," Seay continued.

"The license tag of the vehicle was recorded by Mrs. Shaw and entered on the National Crime Information Center at the sheriff's office," Seay added.

The vehicle was reportedly stolen in Bogalusa on March 19, Seay said.

Seay and Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille, Waveland investigator, went to Pensacola with John Doe warrants and returned the trio to the Hancock County jail on Tuesday.

Each is charged with armed robbery, Seay indicated.

In an initial appearance before Horatio Frierson, Justice Court judge, on Wednesday, bond was set at $10,000 each, and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for March 28, according to John Genin, Hancock County prosecutor.

Dollar General to replace Kent's in Waveland's Our Shopping Center

Deborah DeSalvo has been named manager of the new Dollar General Store at US-90 and Waveland Ave.

The Dollar General Store replaces the Kent's department store.

Mrs. DeSalvo, a New Orleans native, was manager of the Kent's store. She and her husband Martin have two children: Shantel, 10 and Joshua, 8.

The Waveland store is one of 280 Interco Incorporated department stores recently purchased by Dollar General, a discount chain based in Scottsville, Ky.

In seven years, the number of Dollar General Stores has virtually tripled to nearly 1,200 stores in 23 states. The store in Waveland became a Dollar General Store on March 22.

In addition, the company operates the Bay St. Louis Dollar General on Main Street at North Beach Boulevard.

Dollar General has been in business for 45 years, and in discount retailing since 1955.

It is recognized as the retail industry leader in buying high-quality irregular and closeout soft goods, which it sells at greatly reduced prices with a money-back guarantee.

“We buy irregulars and closeouts at manufacturer's cost or less,” said Dollar General President Cal Turner Jr. “We sell them at below normal discount prices.”

Association plans workshop on children under six

Gulf Coast Chapter of MACUS—Mississippi Association on Children Under Six—is offering a one-day workshop entitled “Facts, Frills and Frolic” Saturday, March 31, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Gulf Park.

The workshop is designed to provide in-service training and will offer interest sessions in both cognitive and aesthetic areas.

Dr. Catherine Gray, early childhood coordinator for the Mississippi Department of Education, will speak at the general session at 8:30 a.m.

Following at 9 a.m. interest sessions will begin.

Mrs. Marsha Smith of South Side Elementary School, Piquette, will conduct a session on music for young children.

Jay Craft, president of Computer Crafts, will hold a session on using computers with preschoolers.

Mrs. Ginny Gex, library science specialist at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, will present a session on children's literature.

And Dr. Patricia Jobe, assistant professor of curriculum and instruction, USM, will host a session on cooking with kids.

Cost is $8. Bring a “brown bag lunch.”

MSU announces SPATS program

Academically talented high school juniors are invited to apply for the Summer Program for Academically Talented Students (SPATS) at Mississippi State University.

The program permits students with a minimum American College Test (ACT) score of 23 to earn up to 14 hours of college credit during summer school.

Tuition-free scholarships for the first six hours of course credit are available to the first 30 applicants accepted into the program.

“SPATS students gain a head start in their college careers,” said Dr. Stephen Shaffer, director of SPATS and the University Honors Program.

Shaffer said SPATS students will have complete access to Honors Program facilities.

In addition, two counselors will be available to organize social activities and assist with academic and personal concerns that might arise.

Complete information on MSU SPATS can be obtained by writing to Shaffer at Drawer EH, Mississippi State 39762, or telephoning 324-2522.

EDMEE CAGLE WINS

We are all so proud of Edmee Cagle winning the competition for the State of Mississippi's entry in the poster contest for Senior Center Week. Thank you Edmee for entering for our center!

POLICE AT CENTER

Bay St. Louis Police Department presented a program at the center on 'Senior Power and Police and Community Relations.'

The program included ways to defend yourself and tips on preventing crime against yourself and your neighbors.

NEOWW

This past week was National Employ Older Worker Week. We are hoping all employers who hire older workers have been apprised of this and have noticed how dependable older workers are in their organization and will tell others and encourage them to hire a person on ability, not age.

We have found our older volunteers and staff both have been a valuable asset to our organization. Our Senior Aides teach classes, provide transportation, and assist in all areas. They are truly a plus in our program.

HEARING CLINIC

Starting Monday, April 9 we will have a free hearing test for senior citizens. Ms. Janice Mac Donald from Coastal Medical Clinic will be doing the testing at the center. She will come once a month until she has tested all who are interested.

Each month she will come on a different day so that she can see and test all of you.

County launches War on Ugliness

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A 'War on Ugliness' meeting sponsored by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce drew about 40 concerned citizens to the city-county library in Bay St. Louis Monday morning.

As a result of the meeting, the group has targeted five areas to improve the physical appearance of the county, and selected chairmen to spearhead each 'operation.'

Darlene Underwood of the Cooperative Extension Service and Ellis Cuevas, chairman of the Chamber's beautification committee, report that initially the group will concentrate on the following projects:

—Operation Cleanup, co-chaired by David Garcia representing Hancock County, Bill Johnson representing Bay St. Louis and Dorothy Sutton representing Waveland;

—Operation Camouflage, chaired by Dorothy Sutton;

—Operation Crepe Myrtle, chaired by John Adams of Bay St. Louis;

—Operation Poster (Youth Education), chaired by Kathy Fernandez of Bay St. Louis; and —Operation History, with a chairman yet to be named.

Underwood explained that Operation Crepe Myrtle will involve selecting a specific flowering tree or shrub and encouraging residents to plant one on every lot in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

"It may not be a crepe myrtle," she said.

Another project discussed at the meeting was Operation Bright Spot, which would single out a specific area in which to plant and maintain a flower bed.

Dr. Bob Chapin, guest speaker at Monday's meeting, urged the group to limit the scope of its work during initial stages.

Coordinator of the Land Use Center for Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service, he discussed how to set goals, organize groups, establish priorities, implement programs, evaluate programs and maintain successful projects.

"Our primary goal, of course, is to try to make more people aware of the need for beautification in our area," Cuevas said.

Cuevas noted several events which emphasize the importance of beautification—the upcoming spring pilgrimages sponsored by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs, the influx of tourists for the New Orleans World's Fair and Keep America Beautiful Month in April.

He noted that many beautification projects can be quite simple, such as the edging of yards, sidewalks and fence lines, which Chapin, he said, compared to 'putting on makeup.'

Attendees at the meeting, Underwood said, were given questionnaires to fill out and return indicating their willingness to serve on individual committees.

Committee meetings will be held in early April, she added.

According to Cuevas, the group has already accomplished one objective.

"Magnolia trees along US-90 in Bay St. Louis are in the process of being fertilized."

The fertilizer, he said, is being provided from funds from an anonymous donor.

"Lynette Nybo of Bay St. Louis is purchasing the fertilizer and Hancock County Agent Lee Taylor will do the fertilizing."

Underwood also announced that acknowledgement cards are being printed to send to individuals and businesses who have made an effort to clean up their property.

Participants at Monday's meeting included Hancock County Supervisor Jimmy Trivica, Chamber President Pat Harvill and Executive Director Clarice Gustin, and other Chamber members, 4-H Youth Agent Rickey Smith, Hancock County Agent Lee Taylor and representatives of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, Diamondhead Garden Club, Blue Jeans Garden Club, Hancock County Historical Society, Hancock County Parks Commission, Girl Scouts of America and Hancock County Homemakers Council.

Refreshments were provided by the Chamber.

The American Heart Association wants you to know the warning signs of a heart attack: uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting two minutes or more. Pain may spread to shoulders, neck or arms. Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. Seek help immediately.

Waveland Post joins Legion birthday fete

The American Legion is currently celebrating its 65th anniversary through March 30, and Legionnaires of Waveland Post 77 are planning a gala celebration of this milestone.

Commander Ed Vaughan of Waveland Post 77 announced appointment of a special committee headed by Martin Blanchard to direct the local observance which will feature an open house from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the post home, 212 Coleman Ave.

Committee members and chairmen of the various functions of the American Legion will be on hand to explain and demonstrate to the public the operations of the Legion.

The festivities in Waveland will be part of a globe-spanning celebration among the more than 15,000 posts located throughout the United States and in several overseas countries and territories, Vaughan noted.

The American Legion was founded March 17, 1919 during a caucus in Paris, France attended by representatives of various outfits of the American Expeditionary Force of World War I.

The organization has since opened its membership ranks to veterans of World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War, Vaughan explained.

As part of its preparation for the 65th Birthday, Post 77 is also winding up its 1984 membership drive, he reported.

Vaughan extends an invitation to all eligible war veterans of Hancock County to become Legionnaires.

"More and more eligible war veterans are recognizing that the Legion is an organization which 'Helps America Work.'"

Membership in the American Legion gives the veteran an opportunity to be involved in meeting the needs of the community, state, and nation through the Legions many varied programs."

SPRING PILGRIMAGE—The Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs' 37th annual Spring Pilgrimage opens this year on Thursday, March 29 in Pass Christian, followed by the Diamondhead Pilgrimage Friday, March 30. The Pass Christian Garden Club's tour will begin at 10 a.m. with dedication ceremonies at this new Victorian Gazebo in War Memorial Park at Fleitas Avenue and East Scenic Drive. The gazebo was built by the Harbor Shop with support from the community, and landscaped by the garden club. Members of Pass Christian public school bands will participate in the dedication. Other Spring Pilgrimage tours include NASA-NSTL April 1 and Bay-Waveland April 5. All Spring Pilgrimage tours are free and open to the public. (Echo staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

News Briefs

The University of Southern Mississippi's School of Nursing Continuing Education Program will hold a workshop entitled "Computer Applications for Nurses," on March 30 at the USM Gulf Park Campus.

The workshop is a non-machine oriented, non-mathematical and a non-technical introduction to computer applications in nursing. Participants will learn to demonstrate a simple computer operation, identify nursing applications of computer technology in practice, education, management and research and apply knowledge of computer technology to their own personal and professional life.

Linda McNeely, who is the "mother" of the Nursing Information System at the National Institutes of Health Clinical Center, will keynote this day-long conference and help to answer some questions on planning individual systems.

For more information on the workshop, call 266-5445.

further necessary and appropriate orders 'to carry into effect the terms, provisions and conditions' of the decree.

According to the highway commission's new complaint, an inspection in July, 1983, disclosed several violations of the 1980 decree.

Spiers was given 30 days to correct the deficiencies, but 'substantial compliance' was not obtained until on or about Sept. 23, the complaint states.

By February, 1984, the complaint continues, Spiers had accumulated the following additional violations:

—Three junk vehicles, an old junk motor, an old junk rack and junk door with small miscellaneous junk within the highway right-of-way north of the service road and visible from US-90;

—A large piece of junk steel located on the east side of Harbor Drive and visible from US-90;

—No screening from the west gate to Shuttle tank contract extended

A $390 million contract to build 21 additional external fuel tanks for the Space Shuttle has been awarded to Martin Marietta Aerospace's Michoud Division in New Orleans East.

The three-year contract was awarded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala.

The 21 new tanks will be delivered as required to support NASA's Space Shuttle flight schedule.

Eighteen of the tanks to be built under the new contract are scheduled for Shuttle flights from Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Three tanks are slated for missions from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California where the Shuttle launch site is expected to be operational in late 1985.

Martin Marietta presently employs 4,600 people at Michoud. If Shuttle launch schedules require it, the firm could add an additional 400 employees to its Michoud work force during the course of the new three-year contract.

Martin Marietta currently is working on contracts for 38 flight tanks, each of which is 154-feet long and 28-feet in diameter.

The company has delivered 18 of the tanks to NASA. Ten have been flown on Shuttle missions; five await future flights from Kennedy Space Center; and three were used for ground testing. The 19th tank will be shipped to Kennedy in late March.

The number of Shuttle flights is scheduled to increase each year for at least four years, requiring an increase in the external tank production rate.

By 1988, Martin Marietta will reach a production rate of 24 tanks per year.

NASA has slated 200 Shuttle flights through the mid 1990s. Production of tanks for these flights would extend external tank work at Michoud into the next decade.

The external tank provides 528,000 gallons of propellants to the three main engines of the Space Shuttle's airplane-like orbiter during the launch phase of each mission.

the east corner of Spiers' building;

—Parking of cars and vehicles, allowed by Spiers, within the US-90 right-of-way;

—Gate left open on automobile graveyard south of US-90, making junk cars inside visible from US-90;

—Screening fence on graveyard south of US-90 only six feet high instead of the ten feet required by the 1980 decree;

—Two wrecked cars on the access road to the south graveyard, visible from US-90; and —Stacked vehicles exceeding two cars high, thereby visible from US-90.

Because Spiers 'has failed and refused to comply' with the provisions of the Junkyard Control Law the highway commission, represented by Attorney Michael D. Haas of Bay St. Louis, charges that he is guilty of contempt of court and should be 'dealt with accordingly' to assure future compliance.

Olympic sailors seek U.S. championship

The three-man sailing team of Dennis Stieffel, Randy Santa Cruz and Rod Stieffel from Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, Bay St. Louis, and the Gulf Yachting Association will seek their fourth consecutive Soling Title in the U.S. Soling Championship Regatta at St. Petersburg, Florida March 25-30.

The team's primary goal in this event will be to qualify for the U.S. Olympic Sailing Trials to be hosted by the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club in Long Beach, Calif. May 12-25 and to be sponsored by the U.S. Olympic Yachting Committee.

In St. Petersburg, the top 20 boats or teams will qualify to compete in the U.S. Trials and an additional 10 boats or teams will qualify at the West Coast Championship Regatta in San Francisco April 13-14-15.

Based on these two qualifying events, a total of 30 boats or teams will compete in the U.S. Olympic Sailing Trials for a place on the U.S. Olympic Sailing Team.

Sailing their Soling U.S.-760, the "Spirit of Bay St. Louis," the Stieffel-Santa Cruz-Stieffel team has won three events since they began their campaign last October for a Gold Medal in the 1984 Summer Olympic Games which will also be sailed in the United States in Long Beach, Calif.

Those events include the 1983 Sugar Bowl Regatta, Texas Mid-Winter Regatta and the Mardi Gras Pre-Olympic Regatta.

In all three events, a total of 10 races were sailed in which the BWYC Team had 9 first place finishes and one second place finish which was a throw-out race which did not count in the final results.

Following the U.S. Soling Championship Regatta in St. Petersburg, the Bay St. Louis team's plans are to compete in the West Coast Championship Regatta in San Francisco.

From there, they will move to Long Beach, Calif. to make final preparations for the U.S. Trials.

While in Long Beach prior to the trials they will participate in sailing clinics and rules seminars.

They will study the winds and currents and train and practice on a daily basis in the area where the U.S. Trials will be held.

They will continue to work on their campaign boat, the "Spirit of Bay St. Louis," to further perfect the boat, equipment and the boat speed. The final objectives will be to develop a performance capability, mentally, physically, strategically and tactically to win a place on the U.S. Olympic Sailing Team.

Dennis Stieffel, the helmsman "Spirit of Bay St. Louis," says he is "very pleased with the progress of the team to this point."

"Our teamwork and techniques are good and we are perfecting our boat speed and equipment at a good competitive level."

According to Stieffel, the competition will be keen and alert in St. Petersburg, although, "we feel confident about qualifying for the U.S. Trials and doing well in the U.S. Championship."

The BWYC team continues to seek contributions to their campaign effort to help with travel, lodging and other necessary expenses.

Tax deductible contributions may be made to the team by making checks payable to the tax exempt Olympic Sailing Association of Southern Yacht Club.

Direct non-tax deductible contributions may be made to the 1984 Olympic Sailing Campaign Fund.

All checks may be mailed to Post Office Drawer 231, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

SOCCER CHAMPS—Displaying awards they won in the Second Annual Great Day of Soccer recently sponsored by Coca Cola Bottling Co. at Miller Stadium in Gulfport are, from left, Scott Heltzmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Heltzmann of Bay St. Louis, who represented the Impact team sponsored by the Knights of Columbus Pere le Due Council and won a ninth place certificate and ribbon in the Under 14 Division; Kendall Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daniels of Bay St. Louis who represented the Singers of Loiacano's Health Spa and won a third place bronze medal and certificate in the Under 10 Division; and Scott Pepperman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pepperman of Waveland, who represented the Bruisers of Bernard Construction Co. and won a first place gold medal, plaque and certificate in the Under 10 Division. The three local boys were among the top 10 scorers in their age divisions out of 1,000 youths who participated in the event which judged kicking, dribbling, juggling, long distance kicking, goal kicking and throw-in abilities of the participants. Bay Youth Soccer Report

With the District Tournaments only three weeks away, each game takes on added importance. This past weekend several upsets threw the races into further confusion in the scramble for tournament berths.

Under 8 Division

Previously unbeaten Coca Cola has only the second goal of the season scored against it, both by Gateway Body Shop, but that one goal was enough to vault Gateway Body Shop into first place ahead of Coca Cola. Both teams played exceptionally well.

Then Nell Frisbie Realtors suffered its second straight loss as it was upset by Hancock Bank by an identical 1-0 score. With two weekends to go there are still four teams mathematically in contention as the standings are:

Team	W	L	T	Pts	GA	GF	GR
1. Gateway Body Shop	4	1	0	8	4	11	1
2. Coca Cola	3	1	0	6	2	6	2
3. Nell Frisbie Realtors	2	2	0	4	4	6	2
4. Hancock Bank	2	3	0	4	6	4	1
5. Specialty Metal	0	4	0	0	11	0	2

Gateway Body Shop can clinch a tournament berth with a win in its final game this weekend, and a concurrent win by Coca Cola would also clinch a spot for it in the tournament. Coca Cola has an edge for the number one spot if it wins both of its final games due to fewer goals scored against it.

In another upset Sirlain Stockade handed McDonald's Restaurant its second consecutive 1-0 defeat as the final week of the season approaches.

In other action Bernard Construction easily shut out an unnamed Thomas Murphree, D.D.S. 3-0 to remain in second place, while Hancock General Hospital finished its season in style, notching its second straight win, 4-1, in eliminating McDonald Realty from the tournament picture.

Loiacano's Health Spa is assured of a tournament berth due to Sirlain Stockade's victory. However, Loiacano's Health Spa was not idle, playing two games in Slidell. In the opener against the Slidell 'B' Select team due to an outstanding team effort Loiacano's shutout the home team 3-0.

Then against the number one Slidell recreational team Loiacano's came from behind after a penalty shot to score on the ensuing kickoff to tie the game 1-1. Three teams are still in contention for the second tournament spot, but Bernard Construction has the edge. The standings are:

Team	W	L	T	Pts	GA	GF	GR
1. Loiacano's Health Spa	5	0	0	10	0	15	1
2. Bernard Construction	4	1	0	8	5	10	1

There were no surprises in this Division as Dental Health Service downed Edmond Fahey Funeral Home 7-1 and Pat's Chevron shut out Parker's Hardware 4-0. Pat's Chevron and Dental Health Service have identical records, down to goals scored for and against, and meet this Saturday at 11:00 to decide the number one position. Both teams are going to the District Tournament.

Under 14 Division

In another upset Gulf Coast Waste avenged a previous defeat to Knights of Columbus by scoring a 3-1 decision, knocking Knights of Columbus from the ranks of the undefeated and moving Gulf Coast Waste into first place. Meanwhile Bay-Waveland Tire easily handled Picayune 3-1 to remain mathematically in contention for a tournament berth. Each team has three games remaining.

Under 16 Division

Alcan Cable continues to improve as it managed to tie the Slidell No. 1 team which had beaten it handily previously, 2-2. Alcan Cable (4-1-2) travels to Hammond Saturday.

Girls Division

Dillman Roofing continues to improve as it heads for the District Tournament. This past weekend it downed the Gulfport squad 2-1, with all the girls playing quite well. At press time no game had yet been scheduled for this weekend, but a game with a Slidell team is anticipated.

Black Tornadoes cancelled its game this past weekend, but continues to practice in preparation for the Tournament. SportsWorld played two games this weekend. On Saturday it lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to Gulfport as Dana Wheeler played an outstanding game in goal. On Sunday against a Slidell Select U-14 team SportsWorld got off to a slow start and trailed 3-0 at halftime, but played exceptionally well in the second half, just missing on several scoring opportunities. Michelle Reynolds was a standout on defense.

This weekend SportsWorld and Sea Coast Echo play each other at 11 a.m. on Saturday, and then SportsWorld plays Singing at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE

Mississippi Youth Soccer Association Southern District Director Larry Whiting reports the 1984 District Recreational Soccer Tournament for U-8 through U-16 year old boys and girls teams will be held according to the following schedule:

Under 8 Division

This tournament will be held at Bay High School on April 7, 14 and 15. With ten teams the first round will be a single-elimination round between the first place team of one club and the second place team of another club. The five winners will compete in a round-robin starting in the afternoon, April 7, and

New Federation directory lists 12,000 key conservation people

They save wetlands and whooping cranes; they fight toxic wastes and water pollution; they hike, fish, farm and take care of zoos.

The people who know natural resources are listed in the National Wildlife Federation's 1984 "Conservation Directory," which lists 12,000 individuals and 1,000 organizations from the Air Pollution Control Association to Zero Population Growth.

The 300 pages of the directory's 29th edition, published this month, lists key contacts and addresses for organizations, individuals, and natural resources in the United States and 11 countries.

Included are federal, state and Congressional officials, committees and agencies concerned with the environment, as well as thousands of citizens' groups—with interests as varied as trumpeter swans, prairie grouse, New England wild flowers, and American wilderness.

The listings of organizations include the address, telephone number, names of directors, statement of purpose and size of each group.

The directory also contains: A list of U.S. and Canadian state and provincial fish and game administrators.

Miss.-Ala. Sea Grant joins Year of The Ocean celebration

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium is joining state and federal agencies around the nation in celebration of the Year of the Ocean.

Officially launched March 10, the Year is promoted as an opportunity for the government and private sector to enhance awareness of the marine environment's importance to human lives and livelihoods.

Dr. James I. Jones, consortium director, said that the marine research, education and advisory service agency is sponsoring a variety of educational activities in connection with the celebration.

The consortium will provide special recognition for outstanding marine research by students, fellowships for qualified graduate students involved in marine research at member institutions and support for field trips to bayous and barrier islands for high school students and teachers in Mississippi and Alabama.

Jones said, "Equipping children, and adults, with an awareness of the direct and indirect influence of oceans on their lives is a monumental task," Jones said.

"We believe our contribution to that task, crystallized in the Year of the Ocean celebration, is supporting and promoting 'hands on' educational experiences in marine sciences. We will be providing—or recognizing the results of—firsthand investigation of the marine environment by future Mississippi and Alabama decision-makers and their teachers."

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) has led the way among federal agencies participating in the Year of the Ocean observance.

A non-profit, non-governmental Year of the Ocean Foundation has been organized and charged with planning an Ocean Day and other events on the national level.

Ocean Day has been slated for July 1 by a Congressional resolution and will initiate a week-long series of port festivals and open-houses at marine laboratories and oceanographic research vessels.

The Consortium is comprised of nine universities and research institutions. Mississippi members are Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Jackson State University, Mississippi State University, University of Mississippi and University of Southern Mississippi.

Alabama members are Auburn University, University of Alabama, University of Alabama at Birmingham and University of South Alabama.

The National Sea Grant College Program is funded through NOAA, U.S. Department of Commerce. It is a federal-state partnership that promotes the wise use and conservation of the nation's marine and Great Lakes resources.

USM official publishes in 'Basketball Clinic'

James Larry Ladner, assistant professor of Athletic Administration and Coaching at the University of Southern Mississippi, recently submitted an article to be published in the May edition of "Basketball Clinic," a national magazine for basketball coaches.

Ladner's article, 'Fundamentals of Shooting Free Throws,' stresses the importance of free throws not only in a game situation but also in practices.

"Free throws appear to be a minute phase of the game because in many instances the player, coach or fan does not realize the number of free throws that were or were not successful," Ladner said.

To improve the free throws in actual games, Ladner's article suggested that free throw practice should always be an integral part of shooting practice.

Ladner is presently a member of the Southern District American Alliance for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the Mississippi Association of Coaches, and serves on the USM Committee for a new School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation facility.

Jackson architect wins fowl art contest

A Jackson architect is the winner of the 1984-85 Mississippi state waterfowl stamp art competition.

Thomas E. Goodman, 37, scored 129 points at the end of two rounds of judging on Thursday, Feb. 16 to win the annual contest that selects original artwork to appear on the state's waterfowl stamp.

"I have never been duck hunting in my life," Goodman said shortly after the contest, "and I only recently began painting waterfowl." A native of Shelby, Goodman captured the top honor from a field of 65 entries, the most ever entered in the competition since it began in 1978.

If art talent runs in the family, Goodman's 10-year-old son, August, may some day rival his father in the stamp competition. This year August entered the contest with a painting of two good ducks. He did not come in last.

The other finalists who made it to the second round of judging and their scores were: Bob Tompkins, 112, Greenville; Stephen Church, 197, Picaune; Rick Anderson, 106, Natchez; and Robert Garner, 99, Greenville.

Research Lab studying frozen shrimp weight loss prevention

Allison Perry, coordinator of the office of fisheries assistance at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL), is principal investigator of a project that could increase the economic return from money invested in raw materials in seafood businesses.

Seafood businesses on the Gulf Coast that pack canned and frozen shrimp have found weight losses in their finished product under present processing methods.

The weight loss is costing seafood businesses revenue because each box of frozen shrimp or can of shrimp sold has to be overpacked with shrimp to allow for this loss when the product is unpacked or thawed.

Similar problems in weight loss were found in the meat and poultry industries until they began using food grade phosphates.

Under this project Perry will use net weight analysis to design the best method for incorporating phosphate technology into canned shrimp processing as well as find the proper amount of sodium tripolyphosphate (STP) to treat peeled and shell-on shrimp.

The study titled "Use of Food Grade Phosphates to Benefit the Southern Shrimp Processing Industry" was approved for funding for the year beginning January 1, 1984. The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium is providing the major portion of the funding in the amount of $18,643. The laboratory is allotting $13,917 and the state is providing the remaining $7,726 in support.

This work is in response to a request from DeJean Packing Company of Biloxi, which is investing funds in plant alterations and making the company's facilities available to Perry for the study. In addition, Lesso Seafood Company of Biloxi and the FMC Manufacturing Company (which makes STP) of Philadelphia, Penn., are furnishing some of the sodium tripolyphosphate for the project.

Perry points out that sodium tripolyphosphate is a commercial food ingredient that has the ability to: (1) prevent the loss of tissue fluids and increase product weight; (2) block the chemical activity that can cause rancidity; and (3) inhibit or destroy nutrients needed by some spoilage bacteria.

The use of low concentration of STP, Perry notes, should produce a canned shrimp product that retains a greater percentage of its natural fluids and nutritional value. Also it should increase the frozen storage life of shrimp and produce frozen shrimp that when thawed, will be almost as tender and nutritional as the fresh item.

Perry is conducting preliminary tests under laboratory conditions on the GCRL premises but the majority of the experiments will be in the DeJean packing plant under actual working conditions. Once full scale production gets underway, concurrent lab and plant tests will be made to verify results.

Results of the project will be presented in a paper to be given at an annual regional meeting of food technologists, personal contacts with plant owners, and news releases.

Original bird watchers studied with guns

Before the advent of top quality field binoculars, bird watchers studied birds with shotguns. For them the only sure way to get close to a bird was to kill it.

Among those who relied heavily on dead birds for models was the famous ornithologist, John James Audubon.

Audubon once implied that "It was not a really good day if he killed fewer than 100 birds," writes Roger Tory Peterson in the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Peterson, the originator of the Peterson Field Guides, says that modern day birders are well equipped with powerful binoculars enabling them to closely observe birds—alive—in their natural habitat. Now, writes Peterson, birders are demanding better and better guides to help them identify nature's abundant bird species.

The first illustrated bird guide published in America was done by Alexander Wilson in 1808—with illustrations painted from freshly killed specimens.

Audubon had a greater influence on bird guides, says Peterson. Audubon's "Birds of America" "showed birds lifesize, in action poses and in their proper ecological setting...for the first time the majority of the birds of eastern North America and many of those of western North America were adequately portrayed," according to Peterson.

The shotgun school of ornithology, which prevailed for over 75 years, changed with Ludlow Griscom, a curator in the bird department of the American Museum in New York.

"When (Griscom) was a young man developing his field glass technique, he was challenged by one of the old boys who made all his own identifications through the sights of a shotgun," Peterson says in National Wildlife. "Griscom pointed out a female Cape May warbler in the top of a sycamore. The old boy blazed away. He picked up the bird; it was a female Cape May."

Peterson gives Griscom, whom he met in the 1930s, credit for the philosophy and fine points of field recognition that Peterson used in his Field Guide to the Birds.

Peterson's own career as an illustrator began in the mid 1930s, and it continues today. There are now 30 titles in the Peterson Field Guide series, and Field Guide to the Birds has sold nearly three million copies. His books are unique for his innovative drawings, which detail key bird features for fast field identification.

Of his series, Peterson says, "This reference library, I like to think, has made significant contribution to the environmental movement by making it easier for people to know what they are looking at."

Scholastic Press Institute slated at Ole Miss Friday

An all-new 1984 Scholastic Press Institute at The University of Mississippi is being expanded to include all the latest features of print, television and broadcast journalism.

The 38th Annual Institute at Ole Miss Friday will draw hundreds of newspaper and yearbook staff members and advisors from high schools and junior colleges across the Mid-South.

Headlining the roster of speakers will be some of the South's leading journalists from the print and broadcast media.

Among the speakers for the one-day institute will be Rhetta Grimsley Johnson, Jackson Bureau, Memphis, Tenn. Commercial Appeal, who recently won the highly coveted Ernie Pyle Award for outstanding reporting; television personalities Gary Roedemeier, news anchor for WHBQ-TV, Channel 13, Memphis; Marsha Pollack, news anchor for WLBT-TV, Jackson; columnist Orley Hood of the Jackson Daily News; and editor Thomas A. Kelly of the West Palm Beach (Fla.) Post.

Leading special sessions will be Margie Fairchild Tyler of Jackson, director of the Mississippi Broadcasters Association; and Susan K. Crawford of Memphis, vice president and manager of corporate public relations for the $4.2 billion First Tennessee National Corporation, the largest bank holding company in Tennessee.

A school publications specialist who has won national accolades as a journalism educator will lead a session on yearbook publications, an addition to this year's institute. Dr. William D. Downs Jr., professor of communications and chairman of the Department of Communications and Director of Public Relations at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Ark., will lead morning and afternoon sessions. High school yearbooks will be critiqued in the afternoon session.

Roselyn Eberle, coordinator of the Mississippi Scholastic Press Association and instructor in the Ole Miss Journalism Department — which sponsors the event each year — stresses that not only Mississippi journalists, but high school and junior college journalists from surrounding Mid-South states are invited to attend the institute.

"This year's program is designed to give student newspaper and yearbook staffs a real boost in improving their publications, using thoroughly up-to-date techniques and suggestions," she said. "This is also a wonderful opportunity for young journalists to look into career opportunities in the broadcast and television media."

Coordinated by the University's Division of Continuing Education, the Institute will also headline practicing journalists from the Mid-South, and members of the Ole Miss journalism faculty.

During the day, these outstanding journalists will lead panel discussions on photography, newspaper layout, libel, television reporting, sportswriting, feature writing, television production, advertising, news reporting, broadcasting and public relations.

The highlight of the meeting will be the luncheon presentation of the Silver Em Award, given annually to an outstanding journalist with a Mississippi background. Last year's recipient was John O. Emmerich Jr., editor and publisher of the Greenwood Commonwealth and publisher of the McComb Enterprise-Journal.

Speaker for the Advisors'

Luncheon will be Stan Torgerson, voice of the Ole Miss Rebels Network and general manager, WQIC-Radio, Meridian.

Winners of the 1984 Mississippi Scholastic Press Association Newspaper Contest will also be announced, and Mississippi Scholastic Press Association members will elect officers for the coming year.

Officers for the current year are Scott McKinney of Booneville, president; Rusty Burns of Baldwin, vice president; Karen Elzy of Bay St. Louis, treasurer; and Mike Crockett of Oxford, secretary. S. Gale Denley, Ole Miss general manager of student media and associate professor of journalism, is MSPA director. He is also current president of the Mississippi Press Association.

The annual meeting is hosted by The Daily Mississippian, Ole Miss 92-Radio, Channel 12-TV, Public Relations Society of America, Women in Communications, Inc., Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, Mississippi Broadcasters Association and Mississippi Press Association.

With so many delicious vegetables from which to choose these days, it's far from a penance to observe meatless days during the Lenten season. For my part, I could live far more easily without meat and such than without fresh vegetables and fruits.

For instance, if you're one of those who feel that jambalaya can be made only with meat, try instead an eggplant jambalaya one of these days—and if you must have meat, add a small amount of sausage or ham.

Pasta of all sorts is also delicious sauced with fresh vegetables such as eggplant cubes instead of meat; and potato stew or tomato stew—the latter also known as Creole

Eggs (stewed tomatoes with halved hard-cooked eggs added at the last minute) are oldtime favorites that many of us remember from other times of Lenten meals, when rules were more stringent.

So, let's cook up some pasta with a vegetable sauce, such as eggplant, or even more tasty, let's make:

EGGPLANT JAMBALAYA
2 medium eggplants, peeled and cubed (about one inch or so)

1 onion, chopped
3 celery ribs, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
Bay leaf
5 or 6 green onions, chopped
Pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce to taste
Dash of thyme (optional)
3 cups stock (chicken or beef) or water
1 1/2 cups uncooked rice

Saute the onions and celery in about a quarter cup of oil or bacon drippings until soft, then add the rice and stir to coat the grains evenly. Add the stock or water, along with the seasonings, and bring to a boil. Add the cubed eggplant, lower the heat and partially cover the pot.

Cook over low heat for about 30 or 40 minutes. By this time the rice should have absorbed most of the liquid. If it starts drying out, add stock or water a little bit at a time. When it's almost ready, stir in the green onions and mix well. (Four servings)

If you wish, you can add a pound of sausage, sliced into rounds, and so have sausage-eggplant jambalaya. If you try the sausage first, and when light brown remove and set aside while you saute the onions and celery in some of the sausage drippings. Then continue as above.

TO: Mr. and Mrs. ROBBIE K. POLK, who are last known to reside at 624 Gravier Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, but whose present residence and address is unknown.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI, DOES HEREBY DETERMINE AND ADJUDICATE AS FOLLOWS:

1. That Lot 27, Square 2, Jourdan River Oaks Subdivision, Hancock County, Mississippi, is in such a state of unhealthiness as to be a menace to the public health and safety of the community.

2. That the Owners of said Lot, Mr. and Mrs. Robbie K. Polk, be and they are hereby directed to immediately proceed to clean or have cleaned said Lot 27, Square 2, Jourdan River Oaks Subdivision, by cutting weeds, removing rubbish, dilapidated fences, dilapidated buildings and other debris and any and all things necessary to eliminate such state of unhealthiness.

3. That if said land is not cleared to the satisfaction of this Board of Supervisors within 30 days from the date the Board of Supervisors may clear or direct to be cleared said property, and the actual cost of cleaning said lot may become an assessment against the same as provided by Sec. 146-151, Mississippi Code of 1972.

4. The assessment above provided for may be a lien against said property and may be enforced in the office of the circuit clerk of the county as any other judgments are enforced and the tax collector shall, upon order of the board of supervisors, proceed to sell said land to satisfy said lien as now provided by law for the sale of lands for delinquent taxes.

Methodist students from Texas take a Gulf Coast 'mission break'

PREPARING UNITED METHODIST CHURCH AT CLERMONT HARBOR FOR ITS 40th ANNIVERSARY...

NOT MUCH ROOM FOR MANEUVERING HERE...

Staff photos by Nan Patton Ehrbright

By NAN P. EHRBRIGHT
For some college students, spring break means hitting the beaches at Fort Lauderdale or Daytona Beach or Padre Island.

For a group of Wesley Methodist Student Center members from two Texas colleges, spring break this year meant taking a couple of hours away from work to build a sand castle on a Waveland beach.

But mostly it meant climbing ladders, wielding paintbrushes, hauling lumber and planting shrubbery.

Thirty-nine students from Texas A & M in College Station and Stephen F. Austin in Nacogdoches came to Hancock County last week to perform repair work at the United Methodist Church in Clermont Harbor and Gulfside United Methodist Assembly Center in Waveland.

The work at the Clermont Harbor church was mostly scraping and painting, refurbishing the church for its 40th anniversary which will be celebrated Saturday 24.

At Gulfside the students began the process of restoring an old house that will be used as a retreat or as classrooms. They also did some landscaping on the Gulfside property, and built a playground.

Altogether, 48 people, including two families, made the journey from Texas, spending the day Saturday traveling in church buses, joining the local congregations for Sunday worship service, and then putting in four hard days of labor on the church facilities.

Rick Hume, minister at the Texas A & M Wesley Center, said students from his center have been taking a 'mission break' for the past 12 years. "Last year," he said, "they built a playground in Arkansas for handicapped children."

"Year before last they did restoration work on Indian churches in North Dakota."

"The year before that they went to Laredo, Texas."

One year, Hume said, the students went to Appalachia.

"What we usually do," he explained, "is decide generally what area we'd like to go to."

"Then we write to church leaders in the area to see what needs to be done."

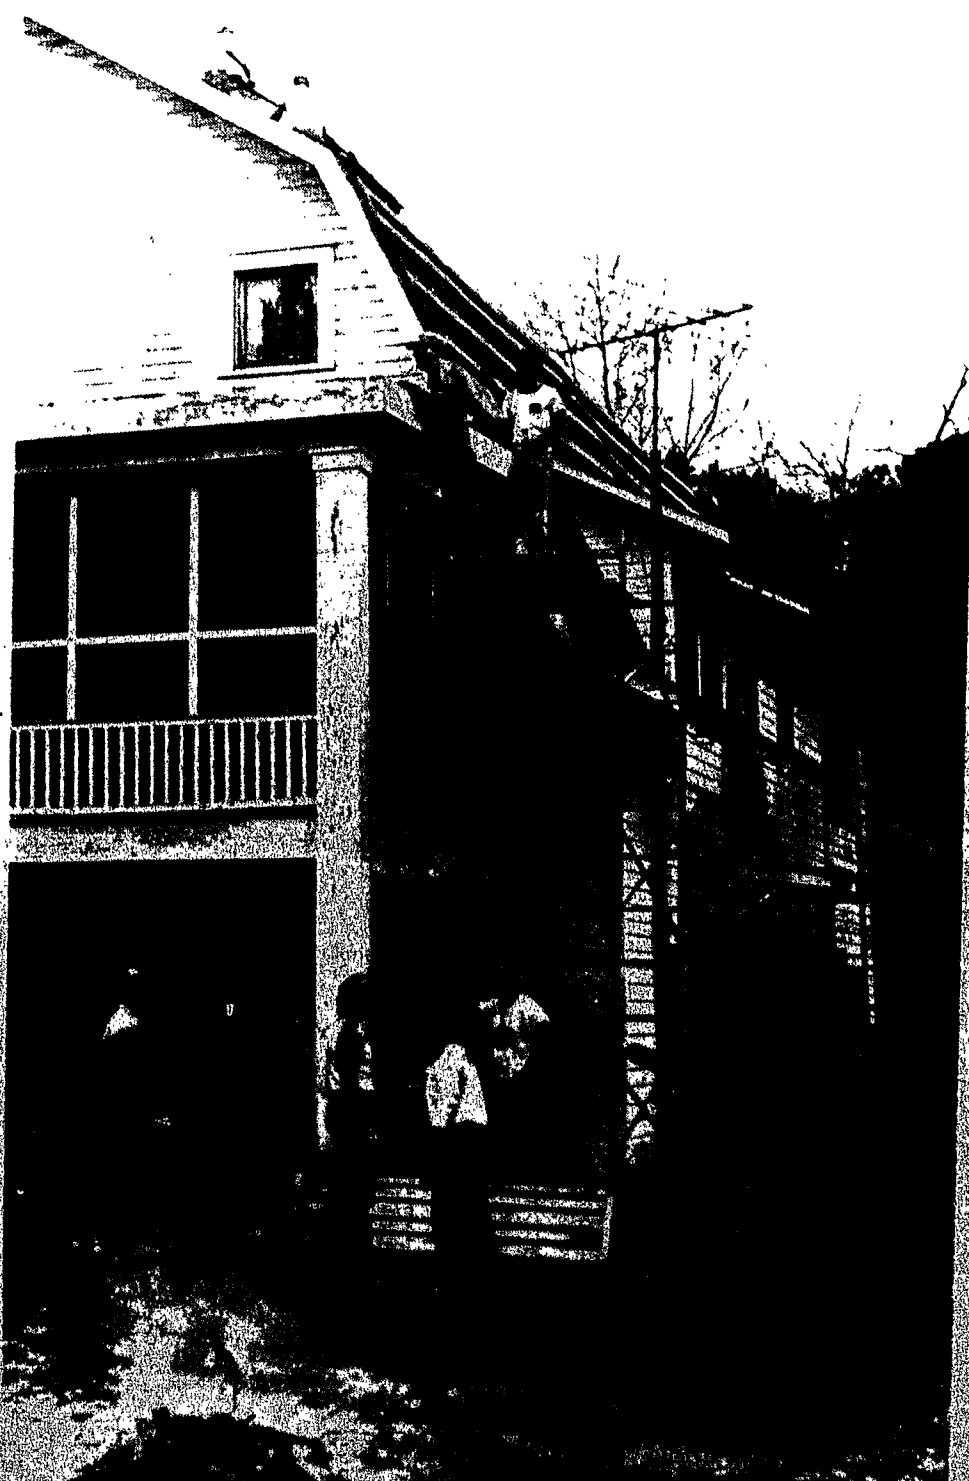

"We do as much as we can to help in four work days," he said.

Hume said the students plan and coordinate the entire work project, with a student leader in charge—this year, Roy Harrington.

The students, who brought most of their construction equipment and tools along with them, ate and slept at the Gulfside facility.

Most of the students are from Texas, although the group included participants from Pennsylvania, Illinois and Arkansas.

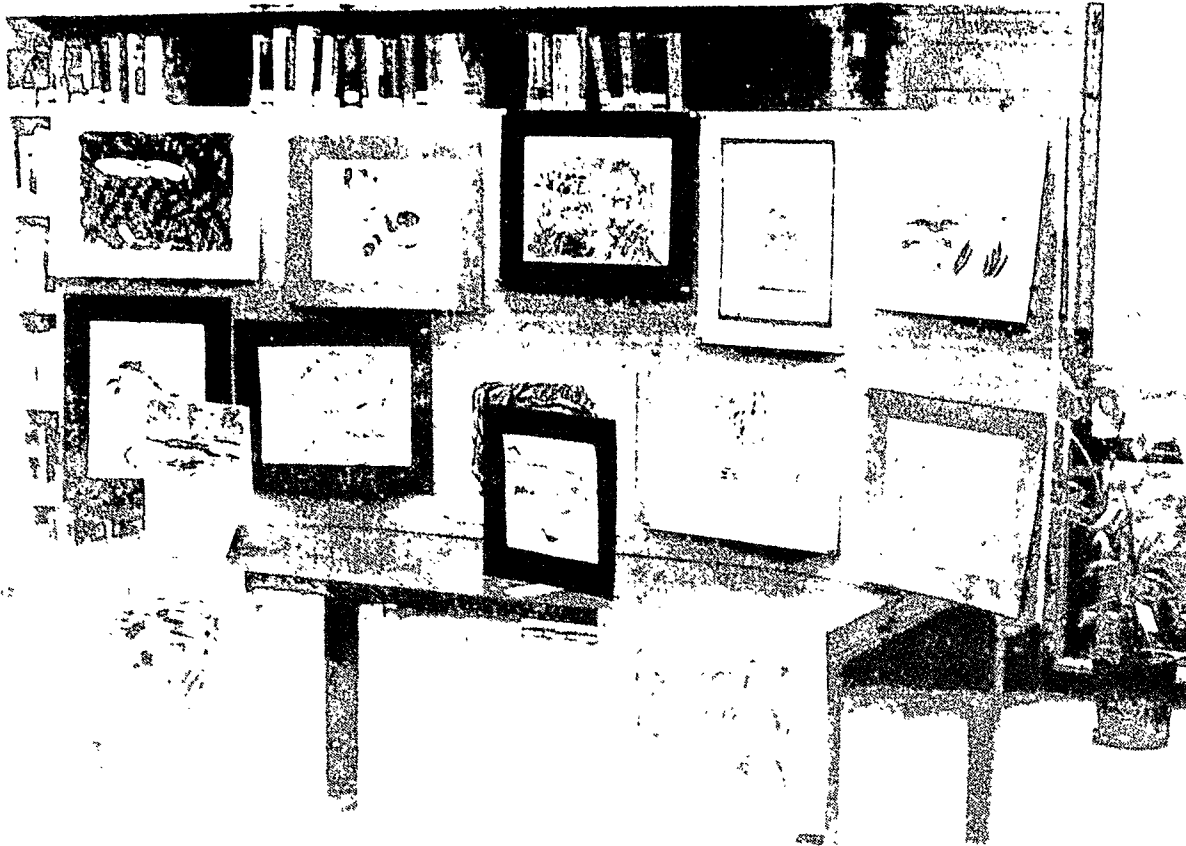

About half, Hume said, were new to the 'mission break' this year, with the rest having participated in prior projects.

LIBRARY ART DISPLAY—Artwork by Christ Episcopal Day School third graders patterned after Walter Anderson's work is being displayed at Hancock County Library in Bay St. Louis through March. Anderson, who was born in New Orleans in 1903 and died in Ocean Springs in 1965, used the mediums of ceramics, drawings, oils, prints, watercolor and sculpture. He studied at Parsons Institute in New York, N.Y. and at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. His exhibitions included 'The World of Walter Anderson' at Brooks Art Gallery in Memphis, Tenn. in 1966. The children's art display includes a book featuring Anderson's work. In January Mrs. John Blossman of Ocean Springs visited Coast Episcopal Day School to show a slide presentation of Anderson's work. Afterwards the students discussed his subject matter, style and techniques, and then tried to do drawings of his typical subjects in his style, which involves large blocks of color surrounded with purple or black lines highlighted by areas of white. Strom completes Gifted Studies

Mahaca Strom of Bay St. Louis recently completed the eight week Saturday Gifted Studies Program at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The program, designed to meet the unique needs of gifted students in grades K-12, drew 178 students, the largest number ever.

Emphasis is placed on individual participation in areas which provide in-depth analysis of specific topics in small group activities, according to Dr. Frances Karnes, director of the Center for Gifted Studies.

"Up, Up, and Away with Books," introduced students in kindergarten and the first grade to the literary greats and "It's a Small World After All," explored the world of insects: their structure, life-cycle and behavior.

Students in grades 2-3 took a tour of the solar system and the universe in "Travelling with E.T." The same group also analyzed the interaction of man, animals and plants in the environment in "Man and Nature."

"The World of Inventing" allowed the fourth, fifth and sixth grade participants to create their own new machines and devices. "Anticipating the 21st Century: Environmental Solutions" developed creative problem solving in a study of present and future ecological systems and man's effect on them.

Students in grades 7-12 enrolled in either a study of psychology or a computer science course tailored to each student's knowledge of computers.

"Psychology: Exploring Ourselves and Why We Do What We Do," introduced the junior high and high school students to topics in psychology through participation in self-awareness activities.

Students taking computer science chose between an introduction to microcomputers or an advanced computer science course, both utilizing equipment in the USM Department of Computer Science.

For additional information about other center programs, contact Dr. Frances Karnes, Center for Gifted Studies, Southern Station Box 8207, Hattiesburg, MS 39401.

USM professor edits on polymer science

Associate Professor Dr. Lon J. Mathias of the Department of Polymer Science at the University of Southern Mississippi recently co-edited a book on new developments in polymer science with Charles E. Carraher Jr. of Wright State University in

Dayton, Ohio. The book, published by Plenum Press of New York, is entitled "Crown Ethers and Phase Transfer Catalysis in Polymer Science."

It is a comprehensive account of the use of new methods of polymer synthesis and modification.

USM still growing

The University of Southern Mississippi recently recorded the largest on-campus spring semester enrollment in the school's history.

According to a report prepared by the USM Registrar's Office, the student population for spring semester totaled 10,524, a four percent increase over spring '83.

The report showed increases at both the undergraduate and graduate levels of study and in the numbers of credit hours generated.

Undergraduates were up 265 while graduate students grew by 159, a 10.7 percent increase. Credit hours, a measure in determining an institution's portion of state money, rose from 136,188 in '82-83 to 140,362 in '83-84.

The USM Schools/Colleges of Liberal Arts, Education and Psychology, Home Economics, Nursing, Science and Technology and Library Service recorded the largest gains. Nursing students grew by 20 percent while Library Service grew 32 percent.

WAVELAND STUDENT ATTENDS MERIT MEET—Kristin Ling of Waveland visits with Dr. Robert Fulton during the recent Annual Merit Conference at the University of Tennessee in Chattanooga. She was one of a select group of students named semi-finalists or commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation who were invited to learn about UTC and the Brock Scholars program for gifted students. Top high school seniors are recruited annually to tour the campus, with transportation, food and lodging provided by the William E. Brock Scholars program which was established in 1977 to provide four-year stipends and advanced honors courses for qualified students. (UTC photo)

Easter Seal team fights for disabled Mississippians

Over the years, Easter Seals has used many campaign slogans: Back a Fighter, Be a Miracle Worker, Money Walks. All of these slogans have the same basic theme—“Assist persons with disabilities win their fight for independence.” And that is what Easter Seals is all about.

Easter Seals works year round to provide direct services to people of all ages with any disability. The Mississippi Society depends on voluntary contributions from the public to carry on its service program. That is why each year there is an Easter Seal campaign.

Many volunteers statewide belong to the Easter Seal team. The chairman of the 1984 team is Walt Shinnault of Tunica and Oxford. Walt Shinnault is a name that is becoming synonymous with Easter Seals. For the past three years Walt has been an avid Easter Seal volunteer. A student at the University of Mississippi, Walt was paralyzed in a trampoline accident in 1980 while practicing his cheerleader stunts. He has continued his education and plans to graduate in May.

Walt has been preparing his assignments by using a mouthpiece to operate a typewriter. One assignment often takes hours to complete. Now through the concerns and donations of Oxford churches and individuals, the Lafayette County Easter Seal Society, and the Tunica County Easter Seal Society, Walt has a computer which enables him to complete assignments much faster and will assist him in attaining his goals.

Supporting Walt are the 1984 Easter Seal representatives, Marc Mims of Okolona and Melissa Jones of Terry. Eleven year old Marc was born with spina bifida. He began walking with a walker and braces at 3½ years of age. Marc attended McDougal Center in Tupelo for two years and now is in a regular third grade classroom at Okolona Elementary School. Marc has participated in Special Olympics and has attended two sessions of Easter Seals' Camp Fun-A-Lot. Easter Seals has also provided Marc with special medical supplies. He enjoys reading, video games, and television.

Melissa, who is 10, also was born with spina bifida. She walks with the aid of crutches and braces. At Byram Elementary School, Melissa is a fourth grader and has been an honor roll student since the first grade. Melissa loves to swim and play sports. She enjoys reading, watching television, and playing with her grand-tended Easter Seals' Camp Fun-A-Lot. Easter Seals has provided Melissa with several pieces of orthopedic equipment.

Walt, Melissa and Marc are definitely fighters for Easter Seals. After all, they know first hand what Easter Seals can do.

Pass woman is agent for student exchange

Host families are being sought for 25 high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Germany, France, Spain, Italy, Colombia, Brazil, Australia, Malaysia, Singapore, Korea, Hong Kong and Japan for the school year 1984-85, in a program sponsored by the American International Student Exchange.

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August 1984, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in late June 1985.

The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families with small children are welcome to participate in both programs. Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students 15 through 18 who would like to spend a high school year or a five-week summer stay with a host family in many of the above mentioned countries.

Families interested in this program should contact Dianne Krogstad of Pass Christian, 452-2114.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS
Dr. Lyman A. Magee, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and professor of biology at The University of Mississippi, has been selected for a Distinguished Alumnus Award by Louisiana College in Pineville, La.

Magee is currently president-elect of the Mississippi Academy of Sciences and the Ole Miss chapter of Phi Kappa Phi national honorary. He has been active in the American Society for Microbiology, having served on several national committees and as secretary-treasurer, vice president and president of its south central branch.

Black culture study not just for blacks

The study of black culture is not just for blacks, says Dr. Ron Bailey of The University of Mississippi.

“In the world of the 1980s, especially in a place like Mississippi, you're not fully educated if you don't understand something about other cultures,” said Dr. Bailey, who was the featured speaker at a recent brown bag lunch program sponsored by the University's Center for the Study of Southern Culture.

Dr. Bailey came to Ole Miss in September from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., to become director of the Afro-American Studies program at Ole Miss—the only school in the state to offer either a major or a minor in the field.

Mississippi has a 38 percent black population, and it is increasing.

Since Mississippians, more so than the rest of a transient America, tend to remain in their home state, there is a forceful argument for black studies at universities in the state, said Dr. Bailey.

“It's not far-fetched to say that if you're going to have to deal with a population that is almost half-black, that you should take some black studies courses,” he said.

Referring to race relations at Ole Miss, Dr. Bailey said, “We sometimes have difficulties because people don't have a sensitivity that would come from studying history. The opinions of blacks as well as whites are all too often based on what was passed on to them by their families.”

“Take the Civil War, for instance. My contact with students leads me to believe they don't really understand it, and certainly most don't understand the different perspectives held by blacks and whites.”

He said that black studies courses can give people of all ethnic groups the tools to pursue the study of their own cultural roots.

“I know it is hard for students in the sciences, such as engineering, to work courses from black studies and other humanities programs into an already heavy schedule,” he said.

“But employers want technical people who have a thorough grounding in the humanities. They're saying they would rather have a person with a broad liberal arts background—a person who can read and write, communicate and think critically—rather than a person who's just kind of wedded to a silicon chip.”

And a diet solely of science courses does not always allow a student to address the question of values, as do the humanities, he said.

“So the students learn to make an atomic weapon. How are they going to decide whether or not to use it? How will they decide to what purpose, to what end technology should be put to?”

Taking a course devoted solely to Afro-American studies is not the only possible answer for students.

“That students get at least some exposure is the important thing,” Dr. Bailey said.

“I'd be happy if in the core courses in various fields, two weeks or so would be spent on the black perspective.”

Mason Chamberlain rep speaks

The annual Pearl River College “Life After Graduation Job Hunting” seminar was held recently in Moody Hall.

The program began at 9:30 a.m. and lasted until noon.

Students who plan to graduate in May attended to gain some valuable pointers from people who have achieved success in their careers.

Guest speakers included

Betty Moore from the personnel division at Citizens Bank in Hattiesburg, who gave specific ideas and pointers for successful interviews.

Bernie Anderson, personnel director at Mason Chamberlain, Inc. at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant in NSTL, gave facts on how to keep that perfect job once it has been landed.

Mack Stewart, vice-president of Hancock Bank in Poplarville, wrapped up the final session with hints on handling personal budgets, using credit and making loans.

Joe Wesley and Ann Moore, vocational-technical counselors at the Poplarville campus, presented the program for vo-tech students as part of the placement service the college provides.

M. HAVILAND WALLACE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wallace Jr. and student at Our Lady's Academy in Bay St. Louis, has been named a 1984 United States National Award winner in science. Her name will be included in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published annually.

Extension Service offers tips on coping with college costs

Are you prepared to handle the expense of that college-bound child of yours? College costs can be one of the largest items on a parent's pocketbook. Being prepared and knowing where to find help can ease the burden substantially, though.

Financial assistance for the college student can come in the form of gift aid or grants and scholarships. It is also available in what is known as self-help forms, consisting of loans and part-time jobs.

The largest source of funds for Federal Aid programs, money from Federal Aid programs is available through the colleges themselves in the following forms:

1. Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants (ranging from $200 - $2,000 per year);
2. College Work Study (from $600 - $1,000 per year); and
3. National Direct Student Loans (up to $3,000 for freshmen and sophomores and up to $6,000 for upperclassmen and graduate students).

Other Federal Aid money available through private lenders and the government include:

1. Pell Grants ($200 - $1,800 per year);
2. Guaranteed Student Loans (up to $2,500 for undergraduates); and
3. Parent Loans for Undergraduates (up to $3,000).

The next largest source of college aid after the Federal government is college-sponsored programs. These vary from college to college. Information should be sought through the school. Middle income families may find this source the most valuable.

State and local aid for college students is a third-source fund which may be available. For state aid you may be able to apply through the college or your state office of higher education. Sources for information on local aid might include the following:

1. The family's professional or business connections;
2. labor union programs listed in the "AFL-CIO Guide to union Sponsored Scholarships, Awards, and Student Financial Aid";
3. high school guidance counselors;
4. your local county Extension staff;
5. the American Legion Post for help to veterans' children; and
6. civic, religious, and fraternal groups.

Apart from student financial aid, parents are finding other creative plans for financing college.

There are commercial loans, often at below current interest rates. Some schools offer installment plans for paying school expense.

Some schools offer installment plans for paying school expense.

There are prepayment plans at some schools, allowing you to prepay tuition at the going rate. (This may not be the best investment of your present funds.)

Cooperative education for students willing to alternate school terms with work experience while earning a degree.

Advance-placement exams give students an opportunity to by-pass some freshmen level courses and complete their degree in three years rather than four years.

College costs can seem overwhelming to the low and middle income family. Sometimes even the wealthy find financing college a major obstacle. However, the obstacle can be overcome, and even made less burdensome if you take the time to search for financial aid.

Law Weekend to examine Court decisions

Supreme Court decisions affecting freedom of speech and the press will be examined during the 10th annual Law Weekend set for March 22-25 at The University of Mississippi School of Law.

The event is co-sponsored by the Law Alumni Chapter of the Ole Miss Alumni Association and the Law School.

A highlight of the weekend will be the 10th annual Law Memorial Lectures delivered by Professor Phillip B. Kurland, the William R. Kenan Jr. Distinguished Service Professor at the University of Chicago.

A former law clerk to Justice Felix Frankfurter, Kurland has served as a consultant to the Conference of Chief Justices, the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Separation of Powers and the Justice Department.

In 1960 he founded "The Supreme Court Review," an annual volume of criticism of the work of the U.S. Supreme Court.

"Freedom of Speech and Press in the Burger Court" will be the topic of the lectures at 10:30 a.m. March 22 and 23 in the Ethridge Moot Court Room.

W. David Watkins of Madison, president of the Young Lawyers Division of the American Bar Association and a 1974 Ole Miss Law School graduate, will speak at the March 23 banquet.

Alumnus Leonard B. Melvin Jr. of Laurel, past president of the Mississippi Trial Lawyers Association, will conduct an MTTLA seminar, civil procedure, on March 22.

During the weekend, members of the Law School classes of 1964, '64, '64, '64, '64, '64 and '74 will participate in reunion activities.

Law Weekend will also include a reception at the home of Law School Dean and Vice President, William R. Kenan Jr., on March 22.

Brief

NEW PRESIDENT

Dr. Frank Childrey of Oxford has been elected president of the Jimmie Rodgers Memorial Association, a group formed in 1980 to preserve and promote the work of the country music pioneer from Meridian.

Dr. Childrey, an English instructor at the University of Mississippi, is a senior staff writer at the University Center for the Study of Southern Culture.

He was born in Meridian, Miss., and has lived in Oxford since 1960.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A public hearing will be conducted by the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission on Tuesday, 27 March 1984, to consider changing and zoning classification of the following described property located in Hancock County, Mississippi:

Lot 217 and Part of Lot 216, First Ward, City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi (Westerly margin of North Beach Dr.), From (E-3) residential (Multi-Family) to Commercial Highway (C-3) for additions to present structure, to wit: Offstreet parking at rear and interior modifications.

All interested agencies and citizens are urged to attend. The public hearing will begin at 7:00 p.m. (SEAL)

EDWARD A. FAVRE
CITY CLERK
CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI
3-11; 3-15; 3-22-84

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Bids will be received by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Bay St. Louis, Miss., until 10:00 a.m. Monday, April 2, 1984, and shortly thereafter publicly opened for:

Removal of all corrugated metal pipe and pile on the south side of the Bay Road from Buccaneer State Park to Bay Oaks Drive in District 1.

Removal of all corrugated metal pipe and pile on the south side of the Bay Road from Bay Oaks Drive to Washington Street in District 1.

All bids will be lump sum for Districts 1 and 4. All work to be completed must be approved before and after construction by the Supervisors of Districts 1 and 4.

Further information, regarding scope of work and inspection of the work site(s) may be obtained by calling Sam Perreault, (601) 467-5234, District 4, or Bert Courge, (601) 467-7886, District 1. Certified check or bid bond for five percent (5%) of total payable by Hancock County must accompany each proposal.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Attention is called to the fact that contracts exceeding $25,000 require contract bonds to be obtained by the contractor from the State of Mississippi and to have a certificate of responsibility.

Published by order of the Board of Supervisors dated February 27, 1984. (SEAL)
